

I Holland Online Training

I Holland Online Training gives you a large selection of multi-media materials to provide an engaging online learning experience. Courses are comprised of a variety of animations, illustrations, videos, diagrams and interactive quizzes. This training takes advantage of materials developed from I Holland's 70+ years of experience and we have developed a range of modules to cover your needs. In addition, these can be customised to individual company requirements.

I Holland Online Training is perfect for any director, manager or supervisor who wants to improve employee knowledge in areas of tablet compression tooling. A hierarchical system means that there is full audit and tracking of employee development and certification. I Holland will issue a training certificate upon completion of each course and track when this needs to be updated. With A compartmentalised structure can be used across different departments, job roles, sites and even countries for comparison purposes.

The system is accessible through a variety of devices, meaning that no designated training facility is required and the system can even be accessed on-the-go for busy operatives and managers alike.
